

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS
 James W. Stavosky, DPM

It has been approximately one year since the members voted to change the name of the organization to the American Board of Podiatric Medicine (ABPM). The Board of Directors and ABPM staff has worked hard to make the transition to the new name a smooth one. The new name has brought better understanding of our board to our profession, the medical profession in general, and the public. The ABPM has accomplished several key objectives within this time and other initiatives are ongoing.

The most significant changes have been brought about by the board in our examination processes overseen by our exam chairman Dr. Michael DellaCorte. The qualification and in-training examination sub-committee, led by Dr. Edwin Wolf, has the responsibility of writing both examinations. As the styles of the questions are similar in both it allows for a smooth transition for residents taking first the in-training exam and then the board qualification exam. Both the in-training exam and qualification exam are administered at testing centers around the country. Candidates no longer have to travel to a central location to take these exams.

The certification exam process, led by Dr. Steven Goldman and his committee has transitioned the oral exam process to a computer-based exam. The first computer-based certification exam was administered last fall. The board of directors is confident that the candidates who pass this exam process will have met the high standards of ABPM. As with the in-training and qualification examinations, candidates for certification no longer have to travel to a central location to sit for the oral examination; they can now complete the process at testing centers nearer their homes in the vast majority of cases.

Another change in the certification process is that candidates who are applying for ABPM certification and have three years of appropriate residency training no longer need to submit cases for documentation as a precursor to the exam. This has streamlined the certification process for many potential candidates. It is possible for a candidate to take the qualification exam at a testing center in June and, if they pass on that attempt, take the certification exam at a testing center in October of the same year. This process allows candidates to become board certified by the ABPM within the same calendar year in which they complete their residency training.

The board has also hired the marketing firm of Edelman to help educate residents, residents, the medical profession and the public about the importance of being certified by the ABPM. Our marketing committee consists of Drs. David George, Lester Jones and Mitchell Shikoff. The committee has already done an excellent job guiding Edelman as they revamp our website and newsletters.

The board is also pursuing the possibility of adding Certificates of Added Qualification (CAQs). The committee evaluating this venture is led by Dr. Gina Painter. The CAQs would be available to persons having specialty training within the areas that are certified by ABPM. An example would be Limited Care/Limb Preservation. Other areas under evaluation for which CAQs could be issued include, but are not limited to, biomechanics/orthopedics, podopediatrics, imaging, dermatology and sports medicine.

This has been an exciting first year under our new name, the American Board of Podiatric Medicine. We look forward to your support in the board's endeavors to further enhance our examination and certification processes and to educate everyone on the value of ABPM certification.

Sincerely,

 James W. Stavosky, DPM

A PERSPECTIVE ON THE MAINTENANCE OF CERTIFICATION PROGRAM

The ABPM Maintenance of Certification (MOC) program, in which I enrolled in 2011, has been a great way to gain back a percentage from Medicare while fulfilling the re-credentialing requirement. When I first read the MOC program material from ABPM it seemed like an endless trail of regulations and paperwork, but in reality it was a straightforward process. After I re-read the manual it all fell into place and was straight-forward.

You must submit 3 cases of your own choosing, with full documentation including notes and any x-rays, lab tests and other imaging studies, as well as a corresponding patient survey of care. You must also be PQRS compliant in order to receive the 5 percent MOC increase. You MOC. Thereafter, if interested in obtaining the .5 percent incentive, you must annually verify at least one professional development activity from among several options, such as attending a workshop, module, presenting a lecture, assisting with a field test process for the Board, etc. In short, demonstrating continuing professional learning as a means of keeping up-to-date with current trends in the profession.

Over the course of 9-10 years there is a requirement for one formal self-assessment examination to be taken, and annual verification of CMEs.

I felt that it was a priority to re-credential under the MOC program. This added an additional revenue stream to my practice. Other certifying boards that use an MOC program include, for example, the American Boards of Dermatology, Emergency Medicine, Neurological Surgery, Optometry, Radiology, and Plastic Surgery, as well as others.

Step One: Fill out an application and be bound to the ABPM MOC program for 10 years at a fee of $1,635.00 (a payment plan is also available at a different fee).

Step Two: Maintain an active license to practice podiatry.

Step Three: Select three patients from among multiple eligible categories as listed on the instructions (e.g. General Medicine, Podopediatrics, Endocrine, Geriatrics, etc.) and send in full chart documentation, with 3 matching patient surveys, for committee review.

Step Four: Maintain a level of education/ongoing learning by earning 250 CMEs over a 10 year period. That's an average of 25 CMEs per year, or 300 CMEs over a 10 year period which is an average of 30 CMEs per year if wishing to qualify for the CMS incentive.

Step Five: Within the 10 year cycle, you must fulfill two, part 4 components (or annually if receiving the CMS incentive), and must also take a 100 question self-assessment exam at a test center convenient to you.

I am now enrolled and fully benefiting from the ABPM MOC program. I believe this is something most of my peers would be interested in doing as well!

A WORD OF THANKS
 Marc A. Benard, DPM, Executive Director

An organization such as ours cannot exist without generous donations of time and talent by a great many individuals. More than a few of them serve, or have served, in more than one capacity over the years. As many of the committee functions require several face-to-face meetings that necessitate considerable time away from home and also conference calls, e-mails, etc., the time commitment is significant. Although the ABPM is primarily a certifying organization within our specialty, the activities of the ABPM are many and diverse. Carrying out these activities would not be possible were it not for the various committees and liaison positions.

I have known and worked with many of these individuals for quite some time and am clearly the better for the interaction. We all owe them a debt of gratitude.
